NJPA Foundation Grant Awards & Scholarships

A Fundamental component of the NJPA Foundation's mission is to support the training of young psychologists. One of the ways we meet this goal is to provide funding for student-initiated research and projects that address psychological issues that have significant impact on community health. Through the generosity of individual contributions we are able to offer four awards and scholarships for innovative family, school and community projects.

Five Student Awards Available: Application Deadline: July 16, 2007

Research into Causes and/or Treatment of Social Problems: Funds research related to the causes and/or treatment of social problems, including school issues, work problems, health issues and aggression. $2,000 awarded annually.

Dr. Zellig Bach Award for the Study of the Family: Awarded for research pertaining to psychological sequelae of divorce, adoption, teenagers pregnancy, single parents with dependent children, interpersonal abuse, substance abuses, custody, dual child care, etc. $1,000 awarded annually.

Winifred Starbuck Scott School Psychologist Training Award: Established to assist a graduate student in the completion of a distinguished project in school psychology (typically awarded during internship). $600 awarded every two years.

The NJPA Foundation Scholarship for Minority Graduate Students: Awarded to a minority graduate student in psychology who advances the goal of supporting the needs of underserved communities through research or service. $2,000 awarded annually.

Dorothy D. Palmer Scholarship for the Study of Optimal Aging in Women: Awarded to a doctoral student who demonstrates interest in gerontology and women's studies and would be able to work in a supervised externship at a comprehensive retirement facility. $5,000 awarded annually.

Nominations for the Dean's & Virginia Bennett Awards

To: Faculty, Staff and Students

It's that time of year again where GSAPP recognizes those students who have significantly contributed to the GSAPP community for the 2006-2007 academic year. Please note the names with a brief reason why they should be chosen and what they have done to merit your nomination. Please return this to my mailbox or email me at kriegs@rci.rutgers.edu no later then Monday, April 13, 2006. The actual ballots will be typed and placed in student mailboxes by Friday, May 1, 2006. Each award includes a framed certificate, a $300 check and their name engraved on a brass plate outside room A317 on the third floor.

Nominations for 2007 President’s Recognition Program

Over the past three years, this awards program has become a tradition through which the university celebrates the distinguished contributions of Rutgers employees in the areas of exceptional service and collaboration.

Outstanding employee achievement is recognized in two ways. The Rutgers University Bridge Award acknowledges work teams that have achieved an extraordinary accomplishment or have made an outstanding, sustained contribution in support of a unit's mission or that of the university as a whole. Up to five teams will receive Bridge Awards this year. The Excellence in Service Award recognizes individual employees who have exhibited superior job performance and who deliver exemplary service to others. The university will present up to ten Excellence in Service Awards across five job categories. Individuals at any level and from any area may be nominated; employees may nominate themselves or colleagues for either of these awards. As part of this process, I ask you to consider the contributions of your co-workers as well as the efforts of those who provide service to you and your unit.

Nominations should be sent to University Human Resources by May 25. Award recipients will be announced October 16 at the Awards Ceremony and Showcase, during which all individuals nominated for special recognition will be acknowledged. Nominated teams will be invited to display their project-related work during the event, and the university community is invited to attend to share in this exchange of ideas. Complete information about the program, including the selection process, nomination criteria, and
