LETS WIN A GRANT FOR GSAPP
Dean Stan Messer and Lew Gantwerk are asking for our help in winning a $250,000 grant for GSAPP. Please read below and go to the website listed to create your username and password so you can vote once a day in the month of May. The more votes, the closer we will come to achieving this goal.

We Need Your Help To Reduce Bullying in NJ Schools!
The Rutgers Center for Applied Psychology has been nominated to receive a $250,000 grant to "Reduce Bullying in NJ Schools" from the Pepsi Refresh Challenge Competition. We are aiming to create safe and positive learning environments in our schools - environments where kids can excel, where teachers love to teach, and where parents and the community are proud!

In order to receive these funds, we need your vote beginning May 1, 2010 on the Refresh Everything website at http://www.refresheverything.com/reducenjb Bullying. Please join Refresh Everything by creating a username and password and vote for our project every day in the month of May. Our project description is organized within the $250,000 category. Once you are logged in, you can vote for the project. Voting will be open from May 1st through May 31st, 2010, and remember we need you to vote daily!

Thanks for your help and spread the word. This is an incredible opportunity for NJ schools!

EDITOR WANTED FOR ALUMNI NEWSLETTER
Dear Alumni,

Jeff Axelbank—who has been the Alumni Organization Newsletter Editor for the past eleven issues—has resigned from his position to devote more attention to the NJPA “Speak your Mind” campaign. Jeff has done an outstanding job as editor and will be sorely missed. However, he has graciously agreed to train the next editor.

Therefore, I am requesting applications for the editor position. The job includes editing and organizing two issues a year (working in close contact with our production assistant, clinical psychology student, Atara Hiller), one around April and one around October; contacting and being available to writers to provide information and guidance; reminding writers as well as the Dean and the AO President of their deadlines; being in contact with the AO President for all that is needed; being familiar with or willing to learn the computer program used to format the newsletter (MS Publisher); being supportive and flexible; and other tasks about which Jeff can fill you in (axelbank@rci.rutgers.edu). The position of editor comes with a payment of $1,000 per issue. If you are interested, please email me your application (Cover letter and Vita) to lucytakagi@yahoo.com or snail mail it to me at: Lucy Takagi, 155 Eileen Dr., Cedar Grove, NJ 07009

We would like to fill this position quickly, so please do not delay. I am looking forward to receiving your application.

Lucy Takagi, MA, PsyD.

GSAPP AO President

PS: Knowledge of MS Publisher program is not necessary for the editor position!
